

INTRODUCTION TO PROFESSIONAL GERIATRIC CARE MANAGEMENT

Presenters: Jacquelyn Browne, Ph.D., LCSW & Kenneth R. Nanni, Ph.D.

Friday, April 22, 2015 ♦ 9:00 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.
Fort Lauderdale, Florida

Choosing to work with older adults and their families as a geriatric care manager or aging life care planner is to be at the forefront of the 'age wave'. The need for a holistic and integrated approach to health and well-being has been reinforced by the Affordable Care Act. The skills and tools a care manager needs dovetails with those of social workers, mental health counselors, and psychologists for whom older adults are the primary focus of practice. Using presentations and exercises, this workshop will introduce those in the mental health profession to the essential aspects of the growing care management field, giving these professionals an opportunity to explore how merging their skills with those of geriatric care management, could become a part of or central to their careers.

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

Participants will be able to:

- Discuss the history of geriatric care management and where this field is heading
- Explain what geriatric care managers do
- Describe the aging family
- Analyze a holistic approach to assessment, planning, and care monitoring

ABOUT THE PRESENTERS

Jacquelyn Browne, Ph.D., LCSW directs the master of arts in gerontology program and the gerontology certificate program offered online at NSU's Department of Justice and Human Services. Dr. Browne's research interests are in aging and resilience. She has received several university grant awards and has presented on aging locally and nationally. In addition, Dr. Browne maintains a private psychotherapy practice in Palm Beach Gardens, Florida, working with older adults and their families.

Kenneth R. Nanni, Ph.D is the executive director of the Florida Society for Healthcare Risk Management and Patient Safety. He received his undergraduate degree in rehabilitation services from the University of Florida, and his doctoral degree in Dispute Resolution and Family Systems Health Care from Nova Southeastern University. He completed post graduate training programs from Harvard University and Cornell University. He is currently an adjunct professor with Nova Southeastern University, and his area of research includes family systems health, care management and patient safety. Dr. Nanni has worked in a variety of health care settings and he continues to do part time work as a geriatric care manger.
