It would be helpful to have some familiarity with behavioral, cognitive-behavioral, and family systems models. Students are expected to take their clinical duties seriously, including attendance to routine clinic duties (e.g., file management) and client contact (e.g., policy compliance to the highest ethical standards, being on time and prepared for clinic sessions, etc.).

Multiple opportunities for modeling, role-play, observation, and feedback of various clinical skills will also occur throughout the practicum.

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (250 words or less):

AACT serves children, adolescents, and young adults that demonstrate behavioral problems consistent with a "diagnosis" of ADHD. Many children also meet DSM-IV criteria for Oppositional Defiant Disorder or Conduct Disorder. Because many children exhibiting externalizing symptoms also experience internalizing problems (e.g., anxiety and mood disorders, etc.), clinical experiences are quite diverse. Empirically-supported forms of assessment and treatment are emphasized and those seeking to conduct research in conjunction with their clinical activities will be encouraged to present and publish their work. Finally, the behavior-family systems orientation of the clinic will also provide opportunities for the student to develop adult psychotherapy (with parents) and consultation (with teachers and other professionals) skills. Students participating in this clinic will receive training in report writing, treatment planning, and develop strong therapy skills. Training is intended to prepare the student for a successful CCE defense. Opportunities exist to deliver parent training, staff training, and provide consultation in a variety of settings.

CLINICAL DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (250 words or less):

The Anxiety Treatment Center provides state-of-the-art anxiety assessment and treatment for community members (children, adolescents, and adults) suffering from anxiety. In particular, the clinic specializes in treatment of panic disorder, social anxiety disorder, generalized anxiety disorder, and specific phobias. Anxiety disorders are a serious health problem in the United States, with estimates of 15 to 25% of the population suffering from an anxiety disorder at any particular time. Empirically-supported treatments of anxiety disorders have been found to be successful for treating these disorders. These treatments have been well-documented and are constantly being refined. The most current treatment protocols have been manualized and provide a nice structure for new clinicians to learn about this type of treatment. Students-practitioners in the Anxiety Treatment Center will be exposed to treatment methodologies and assessments that are empirically-supported. They will also receive training in report writing, treatment planning, and develop strong therapy skills. Training is intended to prepare the student for a successful CCE defense and successful internship placement. Opportunities exist to deliver talks to parents, educators, and CATSP serves children and adolescents (and their families) who demonstrate symptoms of a traumatic stress reaction in response to a variety of traumatic events: child abuse, natural disasters, man-made disasters, etc. In addition, we serve children (and their families) who are surviving their parents’ contentious divorce. Consequently, there is a forensic element involved with this practicum. The majority of children have experienced sexual, physical, and/or psychological abuse and neglect. Many have witnessed traumatic events including domestic violence. Most meet DSM-V criteria for PTSD and many have somatic symptoms (enuresis, encopresis, eating/feeding problems, mood disorders, etc.). Some clients and their families are also receiving psychological treatment for medically diagnosed illnesses.

In addition to working with clients in the CATSP program, students will have the opportunity to work within a newly created division: TAGIT – Therapist and Guardian ad Litem Intervention Team. It is within this division that students will be paired with a G.A.L. and work as a team in determining the best interests of children and families who are engaged in family and dependency court matters. The children will typically have experienced some form of trauma. Practicum students will conduct individual and family therapy including parent-child reunification therapy and parent effectiveness training. They also will conduct psychological testing. Students will work closely with G.A.L.s and the court system and may be required to testify. Clinicians in training will be responsible for monitoring treatment progress.
Weekly didactic session attendance required.

Guided Self-Change, an evidence-based program developed in 1984, is non-confrontational and emphasizes helping people help themselves. Individuals evaluate their motivation to change and develop their own individualized change plans. Guided Self-Change (GSC) treatment is listed on the American Psychological Association’s (APA) Division 12 (Society of Clinical Psychology) Empirically Supported Treatments (EST) website.

Practicum experiences will include assessment for substance use, gambling, and lifestyle issues including primary sleep disorders, and weight control; conducting individual and group treatment, case conferences; and smoking cessation services. On occasion, couples therapy sessions can also be provided for clients in the program. Group therapy services are conducted for homeless individuals with substance use problems at the Broward Outreach Center in Hollywood on Thursdays from 5 to 8 pm. Other opportunities include: (a) providing group smoking cessation services through the Area Health Education Center (HPC) Quit Smoking Now program; (b) providing healthy lifestyle services to community programs (e.g., National Alcohol Screening Day; Employee Wellness Challenges); (c) participation in several half to full day health fairs for the program. All students must do a community project that is intended to better advertise the services of this program. The GSC Coordinator must approve such efforts. All services are available in Spanish as well as English.

Modality of supervision is both in a group and individual format. There will be an opportunity for peer group supervision lead by an advanced student/coordinator.

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (250 words or less):

IPSPP provides diagnostic and in-depth treatment services to clients with moderate to severe characterological disorders who would benefit optimally from a more intensive psychodynamic treatment modality. These include adults, adolescents, and families with neurotic conditions and characterological disorders including narcissistic and borderline states. The clinic strives to meet the need for intensive psychotherapy with this population by offering frequent sessions and a lengthier therapeutic experience. Treatment will emphasize the use of a variety of techniques derived from modern and traditional dynamic theories including ego-psychology, self-psychology, object-relations, drive-psychology and others. The goal of therapy will be to increase the patient's understanding of the etiology and motivation of symptomatology, the dynamics that maintain the symptoms that interfere with their productivity, and the realization of their inherent potential. The clinic's training goal is the development of a skilled, empathic therapist familiar with a variety of treatment modalities, capable of working effectively with the characterologically disturbed patients in long term settings. As part of training experience, the trainee will learn to make use of psycho-diagnostic instruments in formulating a treatment plan, and subsequently use psychodynamic techniques in understanding and treatment of patients.

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (250 words or less):

The overall goal of the Youth Services Department Training Program is to support the development of graduate students into professional psychologists. The mission of the Youth Services Department is to "Administer programs and initiatives of the Board of County Commissioners to ensure the healthy growth, development, education, and transition of children and youth to young adulthood and the workforce." The clinical training program at the Youth Services Department is offered through the Residential Treatment and Family Counseling Division, which offers specialized programs for families who need professional support in their efforts to raise healthy functioning children.

Highbridge Family Center is a 60-bed residential facility serving at-risk youth between the ages of 11 and 18 who reside in Palm Beach County. Typically, the families seeking services through Highbridge have been struggling with confined family relations, poor academics, disruptive school behavior, drug experimentation, poor peer group choices, minor law infractions, and emotional difficulties. In conjunction with the School District of Palm Beach County, residents of Highbridge are provided alternative education while they are enrolled in the program. Referral sources include schools, parents, prevention and diversion programs, as well as former clients. The facility is divided into five (three male and two female) dormitory-style houses, each with the capacity for 12 residents. The residents live at the facility Monday through Friday, returning to their homes on weekends and school holidays to practice newly learned skills with their families. A therapist provides family, group, and individual therapy, and three residential counselors (two-day shift, one night shift) provide behavior management and therapeutic milieu activities for each house.

Psychology trainees will be responsible for completing intake assessments for prospective Highbridge residents, which involves clinical interview, consultation with collateral sources, and case management. Psychology trainees are also expected to complete several full battery psychological evaluations over the course of the practicum placement. Trainees may have opportunity to provide school-based interventions, co-facilitate therapy and/or psychoeducational groups, provide crisis intervention, and conduct outreach activities, including presentations to staff, schools, and community agencies.

Treatment Modality: Intake Assessment, Psychological Evaluation, Group, Brief (4-12 sessions), Short-term (3-6 months)

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (250 words or less):

The Health Psychology/Consultation-Liaison Service provides hospital-wide psychological services to the surgical, trauma, and medical units (e.g. Level 1 trauma center, oncology, transplant, ob/gyn) in Jackson Memorial Hospital, where a full range of complex medical and psychiatric issues are encountered. Psychological consultation may be requested based on pre-existing psychiatric issues, current distress, management issues, poor adherence to treatment, to establish capacity to provide informed consent, pre-transplant evaluation, and coordination of care issues. In essence, a wide range of psychological interventions are provided depending on the reason for consultation and presenting problem. Practicum students will learn the rapid assessment of medically compromised patients, and be able to render a diagnosis, treatment, and disposition in medical areas that are intense and require rapid decision-making and follow up. During the initial assessment, practicum students may conduct clinical interviews and incorporate brief assessment measures as needed to arrive at diagnostic impressions and treatment recommendations. In some cases, such as with pre and/or post transplant patients, brief neurocognitive measures may be required to assist organ transplantation teams to decide on candidacy for the surgical procedure. Practicum students can follow select patients throughout the course of hospitalization. Practicum students learn to collaborate with medical teams, write consultation reports and progress notes that are geared to assist them in the management of their patients, and streamline services specific to meet patient needs. Practicum students will be provided with literature targeting multiple areas, such as differential diagnosis and the more common psychiatric presentations of certain medical illnesses and/or drug-induced clinical presentations. Consultation, assessment, and psychological interventions are also provided to acute, high risk patients in a fast-paced environment.

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (250 words or less):

Housed in the Jim and Jan Moran Family Center Village, the Mailman Segal Center achieves its mission through direct services to families and children, development and implementation of early childhood education and training programs, community outreach, and advocacy. The Mailman Segal Center practicum houses 2 separate rotations. Students are assigned to a specific rotation for the year and participate in the clinic according to the skill level of each student. Students may request a specific rotation and we try, but do not guarantee all requests.

1) Developmental Assessment Clinic & Starting Right. The Developmental Assessment Clinic focuses on assessing developmental delay and autism spectrum disorder in children and adolescents. In this rotation, practicum students take part in all aspects of assessment including intake, assessment, and feedback. The Starting Right early intervention program provides an opportunity for caregivers and toddlers to participate in an early intervention environment to increase communication, social, school readiness, and caregiver skills. Practicum students interact with children and caregivers to directly deliver intervention support within a small individualized group setting. Each student spends one morning per week in each setting. Note: for this rotation, two-three mornings per week are required.

2) The Feeding Disorders Clinic provides direct service to children restricting the volume and/or variety of food (note, this does not include anorexia/bulimia). Often these children suffer from underlying medical problems that have restricted the food these children can eat or children present with extreme picky eating, placing them at risk for nutritional deficits. In this placement, practicum students will learn behavioral intervention including the basics of behavioral psychology, data collection, and data-based decision making. They will also provide direct care to clients and their families. Note: for this rotation, Tuesday or Thursday afternoon is required.

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (250 words or less):

The Miami VA’s Behavioral Health Clinic (BHC) provides outpatient mental health services to demographically and socioeconomically diverse Veterans who manifest a broad range of psychiatric disorders.

Students serve as members of the Miami BHC’s Behavioral Health Interdisciplinary Program (BHIP). The BHIP program is VA nationwide initiative to create interdisciplinary outpatient teams comprised of mental health professionals (psychiatrist, psychologist, social worker, nurse, and pharmacist) and administrative staff (program support assistants, clerks, etc.) that provide wrap-around recovery-oriented care to Veterans. Students attend daily interdisciplinary meetings where BHIP patients are reviewed and care is coordinated. In addition to serving as BHIP team member, duties include completing bio-psychosocial psychology intake/assessments, individual and group therapy, treatment planning, scheduling consults, and maintaining thorough documentation of all clinical encounters using CPRS.

Potential group experiences include Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy (CBT) and/or Acceptance and Commitment Therapy (ACT) for Depression, Advanced Depression Processing Group, Overcoming Barriers Group, and Understanding Effects of Trauma Group. Students best-suited for this rotation are advanced practicum students who are well organized, proactive, and work independently within an interdisciplinary team approach.

Supervision is highly focused on improving diversity awareness and cultural competence. More specifically, understanding the contextual experience of the Veteran and how to choose the intervention and interaction styles that are congruent with Veteran’s worldviews.

The clinical issues range from chronic and persistent mental illness to short-term adjustment disorders (i.e., maladaptive response to civilian life after military discharges). A number of these veterans are medically compromised, which lends complexity to their psychological and functional presentation and ongoing treatment needs. Trainees on this rotation will conduct biopsychosocial interviews and have opportunities to conduct psychological assessments geared toward treatment planning. Students will also provide individual, couple, or group psychotherapy, including specialized groups, such as the DBT Skills Group. The 5D residential program is a 90 day inpatient program for veterans with substance use disorders. Trainees will have the opportunity to engage in treatment team meetings with multidisciplinary staff, hold individual cases as appropriate, and help co-facilitate group psychotherapy for the unit (Family issues and stress management focus). Trainees participating in this rotation will follow veterans on the Comprehensive Inpatient Intensive Rehab Program (CIIRP) unit which provides a broad exposure to disability populations in short-term inpatient rehabilitation. These veterans are often recovering from TBI, stroke, amputation, orthopedic problems, neuromuscular disorders, and/or debility. Trainees will conduct rehabilitation-oriented assessments, focusing on the psychological, social, and environmental variables that affect adaption to disability, such as coping strategies, cognitive and psychological functioning, social skills, substance abuse, personality traits, sexuality, family dynamics, and cultural background. Trainees will provide brief treatment that incorporates disability-specific knowledge and seeks to maximize the individual's participation in the rehabilitation process. Trainees will develop interdisciplinary team consultation skills by functioning as an integral team member, assessing veterans who have been admitted to the unit, addressing psychological barriers, and attending interdisciplinary rounds. Trainees will facilitate psychotherapy groups for veterans with amputations, TBIs, neurological disorders, and/or stroke survivors.

DESCRIPTIVE SITE REQUIREMENTS:

Mandatory Training Sessions: Credentialing must be completed one month prior to start date. Prior to commencing rotations various trainings must be completed including a brief online hospital orientation, on-site training in CPI, training seminars beginning in July, and orientation in August.

Required Prerequisites: Good general writing skills, emphasizing the preparation of integrated reports. Prior coursework in neuropsychology, neuroanatomy, and pathophysiology as well as projective and developmental assessment experience is a plus.

Attendance at specific meetings: Required attendance at monthly Neuropsychology Case Conference and Didactics. Optional, but recommended noon meetings include: Multidisciplinary Epilepsy Surgery Conference (Wed), Topic-Specific Seminar (Mon), Monthly Lunch and Learn (Tues). Other optional didactics include Grand Rounds, Neuroradiology Rounds, Tumor Boards, Neuro-Oncology Rounds, etc.

Specific evening hours required: Testing or supervision may occasionally run into the early evening. Supervision Provided: Individualized and group supervision. We espouse a developmental approach where students transition to independent testing (observe, tested for readiness, observed doing testing).

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (250 words or less):

We encourage applications from students with career interests in neuropsychology, who are seeking to become prepared and highly competitive for internship placement. Preference is given to highly motivated individuals with strong work ethic who are seeking “real world” experience only available in a hospital setting. While training opportunities are particularly well-suited for students with pediatric career trajectories, those with lifespan or adult neuropsychology interests are also welcome. Beyond exposure to medically-complex cases, the rotation emphasizes intensive work in areas that include rationale for test selection, interpretation, and conceptualization within a developmental context. There is also a strong focus on parsimonious and accurate reporting of relevant information as well as provision of environmentally valid recommendations.

The Neuropsychology Service collaborates with many departments throughout the hospital to provide state-of-the-art evaluations in children with disorders that may affect cognition, behavior, emotional well-being, and social functioning. Our Neurosciences Program was recently ranked #13 nationwide among pediatric hospitals. We receive regular referrals from the epilepsy program, which is world-renowned for the surgical treatment of pediatric seizure disorders. Students are encouraged to attend the weekly multidisciplinary surgical conference. Other frequent referral sources include Neuro-Oncology (brain tumors and leukemia), Neurosurgery, Neurogenetics and Neuro-Cardiology. Students may have further opportunity for assessment of outpatients presenting with various neurodevelopmental disorders. Exceptional students with research interests may have the opportunity to participate in ongoing research or initiate new projects.

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (250 words or less):

The Autism Spectrum Assessment Clinic (ASAC), located on the University of Miami’s Coral Gables campus, provides comprehensive diagnostic and psycho-educational evaluations to children, adolescents, & adults who are seeking clarification about an autism spectrum diagnosis. Additionally, ASAC offers therapy, Parent-Child Interaction Therapy, and social skills groups to individuals who are on the autism spectrum. Because ASAC is a specialty clinic, it is important that practitioners have experience with psychological testing and report writing; experience with autism is also preferred. Clients are from the South Florida community, as well as other states & countries. Thus, trainees gain experience in working with clients from many different countries, ethnicities, & cultural backgrounds. Bilingual (Spanish) testing experiences are available.

Assessments incorporate a variety of cognitive measures, autism measures, including the Autism Diagnostic Observation Schedule, Second Edition (ADOS-2) and the Autism Diagnostic Interview, Revised (ADI-R), academic achievement as needed, adaptive behavior scales, parent/teacher rating scales, language assessments, and systematic reviews of previous evaluations. Additional emotional, behavioral, and personality measures are administered as needed. Training on the ADOS-2 and ADI-R will be provided. Students will learn how to choose appropriate tests for the referral question (and given the client’s level of functioning). Interpret test data, provide appropriate treatment recommendations based on best practices, work with behaviorally challenging children, and provide difficult diagnoses to families. Trainees may also participate in school observations.

Trainees have the opportunity to conduct individual and family therapy for children and adults who have ASD and co-morbid anxiety, depression, and other difficulties. CBT is primary mode of treatment, and clients are verbal and have the cognitive and language skills needed for CBT. Social skills training is almost always included in therapy. Trainees may also participate in social skills groups, which are typically held one night per week during each semester (3 weeks). The social skills groups are based on evidence-based manualized protocols, and are targeted for school aged children with ASD. Trainees may also have the opportunity to participate in Parent-Child Interaction Therapy (PCIT) with ASD participants depending on their qualifications. Research opportunities are available in PCIT, social skills groups, etc.

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (250 words or less):
The Child and Adolescent Mood and Anxiety Treatment (CAMAT) program in the Department of Psychology at the University of Miami is a clinical research and service program dedicated to developing and testing state-of-the-art treatment approaches for anxiety and depression in children and adolescents. Some of our treatment programs are funded by research grants and other resources that allow us to provide diagnostic assessments and evidence-based treatment to children and adolescents at low- or no-cost. Other clinical assessment and treatment services are generally provided to families on a sliding scale, with appropriate documentation of current family income. At the CAMAT program, the majority of our research and clinical service focuses on various types of cognitive behavior therapy for children and adolescents with anxiety and/or depression, with an emphasis on the provision of the Unified Protocols for the Treatment of Emotional Disorders in Children and Adolescents. We are currently recruiting children and adolescents for treatment of any anxiety, obsessive-compulsive spectrum or depressive disorder for both clinical research studies and fee-for-service therapy options. At CAMAT, practicum students will get intensive training in evidence-based assessment and therapy for youth emotional disorders and should expect and desire this as a prerequisite. Students with some preexisting knowledge of and specific interest in behavior therapy and interventions research, as well as those with Spanish language skills are particularly desired as practicum students, but not required.

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (250 words or less):

The West Palm Beach VAMC provides primary and secondary level health care to eligible veterans in a seven-county area along Florida's Treasure Coast. The pre-doctoral psychology practicum training experience at the WPB VAMC occurs within the context of the Primary Care-Behavioral Health Program (PC-BH). The trainee will function as a member of the PC-BH team and will be working under the supervision of a licensed psychologist. PC-BH clinicians provide psychological assessment and interventions to veterans seen at the WPB VAMC Primary Care Clinics, including specialty care clinics and programs such as: Infectious Disease/HIV Clinic, Renal & Dialysis Clinic, Hepatitis C Clinic, Pain Clinic, Post Deployment Clinic, Diabetes Program, and Women's Clinic. Clinical experience in PCBH also involves consulting with Primary Care providers and other sub-specialty providers on the team (e.g., clinical pharmacists, dietitians, nurse care managers). The trainee will gain experience in initial assessment and triage of patients presenting with a wide array of presenting problems including: mood disorders, anxiety and PTSD, substance abuse, sleep disorders, chronic pain, grief and loss, compliance issues, and other life stresses. Treatment in PC-BH is delivered in both group and individual format, with most patients engaging in 1:1 psychotherapy. PC-BH services also include a behavioral health component. It is expected that the trainee will complete at least 3 assessment cases. The trainee will participate in case conferences, team meetings, and didactics when available. A trainee working in this program will have the opportunity to gain experience in providing consultation and support to other providers on the team, and to gain experience in dealing with ethical and professional issues and challenges that psychologists address working in this "non-traditional setting."
