SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (200 words or less):

AACT serves children, adolescents, and young adults that demonstrate behavioral problems consistent with a "diagnosis" of ADHD. Many children also meet DSM-IV criteria for Oppositional Defiant Disorder or Conduct Disorder. Because many children exhibiting externalizing symptoms also experience internalizing problems (e.g., anxiety and mood disorders, etc.), clinical experiences are quite diverse. Empirically-supported forms of assessment and treatment are emphasized and those seeking to conduct research in conjunction with their clinical activities will be encouraged to present and publish their work. Finally, the behavior-family systems orientation of the clinic will also provide opportunities for the student to develop adult psychotherapy (with parents) and consultation (with teachers and other professionals) skills. Students participating in this clinic will receive training in report writing, treatment planning, and develop strong therapy skills. Training is intended to prepare the student for a successful CCE defense. Opportunities exist to deliver parent training, staff training, and provide consultation in a variety of settings.

CLINICAL DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (200 words or less):

PPC provides diagnostic and in-depth treatment services to clients with moderate to severe characterological disorders who would benefit optimally from a more intensive psychodynamic treatment modality. These include adults, adolescents, and families with neurotic conditions and characterological disorders including narcissistic and borderline states. The clinic strives to meet the need for intensive psychotherapy with this population by offering frequent sessions and a lengthier therapeutic experience. Treatment will emphasize the use of a variety of techniques derived from modern and traditional dynamic theories including ego-psychology, self-psychology, object-relations, drive-psychology and others. The goal of therapy will be to increase the patient's understanding of the etiology and motivation of symptomatology, the dynamics that maintain the symptoms that interfere with their productivity, and the realization of their inherent potential. The clinic's training goal is the development of a skilled, empathic therapist familiar with a variety of treatment modalities, capable of working effectively with the characterologically disturbed patients in long term settings. As part of training experience, the trainee will learn to make use of psycho-diagnostic instruments in formulating a treatment plan, and subsequently use psychodynamic techniques in understanding and treatment of patients.

The mission of the Youth Services Department is to "Administer programs and initiatives of the Board of County Commissioners to ensure the healthy growth, development, education, and transition of children and youth to young adulthood and the workforce." The clinical training program at the Youth Services Department is offered through the Residential Treatment and Family Counseling Division, which offers specialized programs for families who need professional support in their efforts to raise healthy functioning children. Through compassionate, caring and comprehensive services, the Division maintains and strengthens the integrity of families.

Highridge Family Center is a 60-bed residential facility serving at-risk youth between the ages of 11 and 16 who reside in Palm Beach County. Typically, the families seeking services through Highridge have been struggling with conflicted family relations, poor academics, disruptive school behavior, drug experimentation, poor peer group choices, minor law infractions, and emotional difficulties. In conjunction with the School District of Palm Beach County, residents of Highridge are provided alternative education while they are enrolled in the program. Referral sources include schools, parents, prevention and diversion programs, as well as former clients. The facility is divided into five (three male and two female) dormitory-style "houses," each with the capacity for 12 residents. The residents live at the facility Monday through Friday, returning to their homes on weekends and school holidays to practice newly learned skills with their families. A therapist provides family, group, and individual therapy, and three residential counselors (two-day shift, one night shift) provide behavior management and therapeutic milieu activities for each house.

Psychology trainees will be responsible for completing intake assessments for prospective Highridge residents, which involves clinical interview, consultation with collateral sources, and case management. Highridge is seeking certification in the Sanctuary Model of trauma informed care and trainees will have an opportunity to receive training with the model. Psychology trainees are also expected to provide family and individual therapy for clients on their caseload. Trainees may have opportunity to provide school-based interventions and consultation, co-facilitate therapy and/or psychoeducational groups, provide crisis intervention, and conduct outreach activities, including presentations to staff, schools, and community agencies.

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (200 words or less):

The Health Psychology/Consultation-Liaison (CL) Service provides hospital-wide consult-based psychological services to the surgical, trauma, and medical units (e.g. Level 1 trauma center, oncology, transplant, ob/gyn) within Jackson Memorial Hospital, where a full range of complex medical and psychiatric issues are encountered. Consultation, assessment, and psychological interventions are provided to acute, high risk medical inpatients in a fast-paced environment. Psychological consultation may be requested by physicians for such concerns as preexisting psychiatric issues, current distress, care management issues, poor adherence to treatment, to determine capacity to provide informed consent/make medical decision(s), pre-transplant evaluation, coordination of care issues, end of life issues, etc. In essence, a wide range of psychological interventions are provided depending on the reason for consultation and presenting problem. Practicum students will learn the rapid assessment of medically compromised patients, and be able to render a diagnosis, treatment, and disposition in medical areas that are intense and require rapid decision-making and follow up. During the initial assessment, practicum students may conduct clinical interviews and incorporate brief assessment measures as needed to arrive at diagnostic impressions and treatment recommendations. In some cases, such as with pre and/or post transplant patients, brief neurocognitive screening measures may be required to assist organ transplantation teams to assist with candidacy for the surgical procedure. Under supervision, practicum students can follow select patients throughout the course of hospitalization as determined by attainment of necessary skills. Practicum students will learn the practice of CL psychology - to collaborate with medical teams, write consultation reports and progress notes that are geared to assist them in the management of their patients, and streamline services specific to meet patient and medical team needs. Practicum students will be provided with literature targeting multiple areas, such as differential diagnosis and the more common psychiatric presentations of certain medical illnesses and/or drug-induced clinical presentations. Bilingual - (English and Spanish or Creole-speaking preferred).

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (200 words or less):

Housed in the Jim and Jan Moran Family Center Village, the Mailman Segal Center achieves its mission through direct services to families and children, development and implementation of early childhood education and training programs, community outreach, and advocacy. The Mailman Segal Center practicum houses 2 separate rotations. Students are assigned to a specific rotation for the year and participate in the clinic according to the skill level of each student. Students may request a specific rotation and we try, but do not guarantee all requests.

1) The Developmental Assessment Clinic focuses on assessing developmental delay and autism spectrum disorder in children and adolescents. In this rotation, practicum students take part in all aspects of assessment including intake, assessment, and feedback. The clinic works at a fast pace and evaluates a high volume of clients per week. Practicum students will work on at least 30 evaluations during this rotation. Practicum students can expect to gain experience administering and coding the ADOS-2, sharpening their conceptualization and report writing skills, and completing several evaluations independently while placed within the Developmental Assessment Clinic. Other opportunities include co-facilitating a social skills group. Note: for this rotation, two-three mornings per week are required.

2) The Feeding Disorders Clinic provides direct service to children restricting the volume and/or variety of food (note, this does not include anorexia/bulimia). Often these children suffer from underlying medical problems that have restricted the food these children can eat or children present with extreme picky eating, placing them at risk for nutritional deficits. In this placement, practicum students will learn behavioral intervention including the basics of behavioral psychology, data collection, and data-based decision making. They will also provide direct care to clients and their families. Note: for this rotation, Tuesday or Thursday afternoon is required.

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (200 words or less):

The Miami VAMC Whole Health Center for Pain Management has operated as a specialty care clinic since 1995 and is currently staffed by an multidisciplinary team of providers. The team is committed to meeting the needs of veterans living with chronic pain through a variety of evidence-based traditional and holistic options for pain management. Within this context, psychology offers two weekly pain management groups (Pain School and Mindfulness for Pain Management), provides brief individual psychotherapy targeting chronic pain, performs pre-procedure assessments for implantable devices, and provides psychoeducation to patients regarding behavioral management of chronic conditions. Additionally, psychology is embedded within interdisciplinary team meetings, such as the Opioid Risk Review Board. Students learn to function as a member of a medical team and utilize a biopsychosocial approach to treatment. Trainees primarily conduct psychoeducational presentations regarding pain management, implement individual pain-focused outpatient psychotherapy, facilitate group-based interventions, and conduct pre-procedure assessments. Students also have the opportunity to participate in interdisciplinary team meetings and observe pain intervention procedures conducted by clinic physicians. This is a half-time rotation. Trainees receive 1 hour of supervision per week with a licensed clinical psychologist.

Trainees participating in this rotation will follow veterans on the Comprehensive Inpatient Intensive Rehab Program (CIIRP) unit which provides a broad exposure to disability populations in short-term inpatient rehabilitation. These veterans are often recovering from TBI, stroke, amputation, orthopedic problems, neuromuscular disorders, and/or debility. Trainees will conduct rehabilitation-oriented assessments, focusing on the psychological, social, and environmental variables that affect adaption to disability, such as coping strategies, cognitive and psychological functioning, social skills, substance abuse, personality traits, family dynamics, and cultural background. Trainees will provide brief treatment that incorporates disability-specific knowledge and seeks to maximize the individual's participation in the rehabilitation process. Trainees will develop interdisciplinary team consultation skills by functioning as an integral team member, assessing veterans who have been admitted to the unit, addressing psychological barriers, and attending interdisciplinary rounds. Trainees will facilitate psychotherapy groups for veterans with amputations, TBIs, neurological disorders, and/or stroke survivors.

Required Prerequisites: Good general writing skills, emphasizing the preparation of integrated reports. Prior coursework in neuropsychology, neuroanatomy, and pathophysiology is required. Coursework in projective and development assessment experience is a plus.

Attendance at specific meetings: Required attendance at monthly Neuropsychology Case Conference and twice a month Didactics. Optional, but recommended noon meetings include: Topic-Specific Seminar (Mon), Monthly Lunch and Learn (Tues), Monthly Neuropsychology Journal Club (Thurs). Other optional didactics include Grand Rounds, Neuroradiology Rounds, Tumor Boards, and Neuro-Oncology Rounds.

Specific evening hours required: Testing or supervision may occasionally run into the early evening. Journal Club meets in the evening.

Supervision Provided: Individualized and group supervision. We espouse a developmental approach where students transition to independent testing (observe, tested for readiness, observed doing testing).

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (200 words or less):

We encourage applications from students with career interests in neuropsychology, who are seeking to become prepared and highly competitive for internship placement. Preference is given to highly motivated individuals with strong work ethic who are seeking "real world" experience only available in a hospital setting. While training opportunities are particularly well-suited for students with pediatric career trajectories, those with lifespan or adult neuropsychology interests are also welcome. Beyond exposure to medically-complex cases, the rotation emphasizes intensive work in areas that include rationale for test selection, interpretation, and conceptualization within a developmental context. There is also a strong focus on parsimonious and accurate reporting of relevant information as well as provision of environmentally valid recommendations.

The Neuropsychology Service collaborates with many departments throughout the hospital to provide state-of-the-art evaluations in children with disorder that may affect cognition, behavior, emotional well-being, and social functioning. Our Neurosciences Program was recently ranked #11 nationwide among pediatric hospitals. We receive regular referrals from the epilepsy program, which is world-renowned for surgical treatment of pediatric seizure disorders. Other frequent referral sources include Neuro-Oncology (brain tumors and leukemia), Neurosurgery, Neurogenetics and Neuro-Cardiology. Students may have further opportunity for assessment of outpatients presenting with various neurodevelopmental disorders. Exceptional students with research interests may have the opportunity to participate in ongoing research.

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (200 words or less):

The Autism Spectrum Assessment Clinic (ASAC), located on the University of Miami's Coral Gables campus, provides comprehensive diagnostic and psycho-educational evaluations to children, adolescents, & adults who are seeking clarification about an autism spectrum diagnosis. Additionally, ASAC offers therapy, Parent-Child Interaction Therapy, and social skills groups to individuals who are on the autism spectrum. Because ASAC is a specialty clinic, it is important that practicum students have experience with psychological testing and report writing; experience with autism is also preferred. Clients come from the South Florida community, as well as other states & countries. Thus, trainees gain experience in working with clients from many different countries, ethnicities, & cultural backgrounds. Bilingual (Spanish) testing experiences are available.

Assessments incorporate a variety of cognitive measures, autism measures, including the Autism Diagnostic Observation Schedule, Second Edition (ADOS-2) and the Autism Diagnostic Interview, Revised (ADI-R), academic achievement as needed, adaptive behavior scales, parent/teacher rating scales, language assessments, and systematic reviews of previous evaluations. Additional emotional, behavioral, and personality measures are administered as needed. Training on the ADOS-2 and ADI-R will be provided. Students will learn how to choose appropriate tests for the referral question (and given the client's level of functioning), interpret test data, provide appropriate treatment recommendations based on best practices, work with behaviorally challenging children, and provide difficult diagnoses to families. Trainees may also participate in school observations.

Trainees have the opportunity to conduct individual and family therapy for children and adults who have ASD and co-morbid anxiety, depression, and other difficulties. CBT is primary mode of treatment, and clients are verbal and have the cognitive and language skills needed for CBT. Social skills training is almost always included in therapy. Trainees may also participate in social skills groups, which are typically held one night per week during each semester (9 weeks). The social skills groups are based on evidence-based manualized protocols, and are targeted for school aged-children with ASD. Trainees may also have the opportunity to participate in Parent-Child Interaction Therapy (PCIT) with ASD participants depending on their qualifications. Research opportunities are available in PCIT, social skills groups, etc.

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (200 words or less):

The Child and Adolescent Mood and Anxiety Treatment (CAMAT) program in the Department of Psychology at the University of Miami is a clinical research and service program dedicated to developing and testing state-of-the-art treatment approaches for anxiety and depression in children and adolescents. Some of our treatment programs are funded by research grants and other resources that allow us to provide diagnostic assessments and evidence-based treatment to children and adolescents at low- to no-cost. Other clinical assessment and treatment services are generally provided to families on a sliding scale, with appropriate documentation of current family income. At the CAMAT program, the majority of our research and clinical service focuses on various types of cognitive behavior therapy for children and adolescents with anxiety and/or depression, with an emphasis on the provision of the Unified Protocols for the Treatment of Emotional Disorders in Children and Adolescents. We are currently recruiting children and adolescents for treatment of any anxiety, obsessive-compulsive spectrum or depressive disorder for both clinical research studies and fee-for-service therapy options. At CAMAT, practicum students will get intensive training in evidence-based assessment and therapy for youth emotional disorders and should expect and desire this as a prerequisite. Students with some preexisting knowledge of and specific interest in behavior therapy and interventions research, as well as those with Spanish language skills are particularly desired as practicum students, but not required.

SHORT PROGRAM DESCRIPTION (200 words or less):

The West Palm Beach VAMC provides health care to eligible veterans in a seven-county area along Florida's Treasure Coast. The pre-doctoral psychology practicum trainee will function as a member of the PTSD or PCMHI team and will be working under the supervision of a licensed psychologist.

The Posttraumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) Clinic provides services to veterans diagnosed with PTSD related to combat and military sexual trauma, as well as other military and civilian traumas. Treatment focuses on time-limited models that promote recovery, emphasize the delivery of EBT's (PE, CPT), and may also include psychoeducation and skills-based interventions to manage symptoms. Services are delivered through group and individual modalities, with most patients engaging in 1:1 psychotherapy. Trainees will be involved in assessment, treatment planning, providing individual, group, and family therapy, and discharge planning.

The Primary Care Behavioral Health Integration (PCMHI) clinicians provide psychological assessment and interventions to veterans seen at the WPB VAMC Primary Care Clinics. The trainee will gain experience in initial assessment and triage of patients presenting with a wide array of presenting problems including: mood disorders, anxiety and PTSD, substance abuse, sleep disorders, chronic pain, grief and loss, compliance issues, and other life stresses.

The trainee will participate in case conferences, team meetings, and didactics when available. A trainee working in this facility will have the opportunity to gain experience in providing consultation and support to other providers on the team, and to gain experience in dealing with ethical and professional issues and challenges that psychologists address working in this setting. The training experience at WPB VAMC will be in either the PCBH clinic or the PTSD clinic as outlined. Applicants are advised that applying to this practicum site suggests openness to either opportunity.
